

Inclusion & Diversity e-News | Mar 2019

Welcome back to the Inclusive Sport SA e-News, the first for 2019!

It's hard to believe that March is well underway and winter sport is almost upon us. We know many of our members will soon be digging out their footy boots, taking that extra jacket to swimming or making the weekly trip to Priceline Netball Stadium. With summer sports coming to an end there's no better time to try a new sport or recreational activity and we've included some great options below for those looking to get back in to, or try a new, sport.

Our Rapidswim Learn to Swim and Aquatic Therapy programs are almost halfway through for Term 1 and it's been great to see so many returning families and some new faces as well. Welcome to all of our new members in our Rapidswim family, we hope that you have been enjoying your time in our programs so far.

Our therapist Natalie Montgomery has had a busy start to the year taking on new clients and hosting a Positive Behaviour Workshop a few weeks ago. The workshop, which offered guidance to parents and carers in creating a positive behaviour plan for the young person in their lives, was a successful day and we look forward to hosting similar events again in the future.

In February we announced the 2019 members of the Participant Advisory group will provide valuable insight and advice to the South Australian sport and recreation sector to engage more participants in an active lifestyle. We are grateful to our PAG members for volunteering their time and experience to benefit the community and sport sector.

The 2019 Inclusion and Diversity in Sport Conference is in planning stages with the event once again scheduled to take place at Adelaide Oval this May. In the sixth year of the annual event we look forward to once again bringing together sports administrators to talk about relationships between club sport, state bodies, education & government departments as the influence leaders in community behaviours to truly 'widen' our club doors. Tickets are now available for those interested in attending.

See you around the grounds...
